INTRODUCTION

This bibliography includes not only historical fiction, such as is given by Baker, but extends to any fiction having Spain, Spanish America, or the Spanish peoples as a background. It has been difficult at times to draw the line. It is hard to tell, for example, when a book is distinctly Spanish background for our own Southwest, or when it becomes a real 'American Historical Novel.' Every book that has been included, however, has been felt as giving its reader a definite impression of Spanish type, character, life, or influence in world affairs, from some one of the many possible viewpoints.

Names and dates have been given as completely as available material would allow. The date found opposite the name of the book is the date of first publication. The endeavor has been to give the name of one publisher, with date of at least one edition. Where data on other editions have been found, these have also been presented.

The books have been grouped according to the country or peoples to which they refer, naming the books alphabetically by authors within each group. The groups have then been arranged alphabetically by countries, as given in the Table of Contents. The Index then takes up the groups in the same order, arranging the books alphabetically by title. The index for Spain has, in addition, been arranged chronologically before being alphabetized by title.

Comments on the books are original or taken from reviews or other bibliographies. When the comment is a summary from other sources than my own knowledge, it has been placed in parentheses. I have preferred to quote in many cases where I have actually read the book.

I wish to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the kind assistance, so freely given, of Mr. Root, the Librarian of the Oberlin College Library.

As this is the first attempt at a bibliography of this character there will of necessity be many omissions. I should be grateful to anyone who might call my attention to any such.

ARGENTINA

Anonymous

Ponce de Leon; or, The Rise of the Argentine Republic, by an Estanciero. 1878. Chapman & Hall, 1878. Laurie, 1910

(A novel which is said to be the most graphic history extant of the British invasion and the rise of Argentina [1806–10]; Spanish in bias, however, though the facts are said to be right.) An unusual novel, true to the spirit of the time

Bulfin, William

Tales of the Pampas. 1900. Unwin

(Free and easy, broadly humorous stories of the rough life in Argentina, where Irish settlers are numerous. The contrast between Spanish and Hibernian character gives point to several of the tales)

Chamberlain, Henry Richardson (1859–)

6,000 Tons of Gold. Flood & Vincent, Meadville, Pa. (The Chatauqua-Century Press), 1894

(Fortune hunting in Patagonia and its result on world markets. Extravaganza of a man with 4,000 million dollars)

Hayens, Herbert (1861–)

The Tiger of the Pampas. Juv. Nelson, 1907, new ed.

(Argentina in 1829; the Gauchos)

Henty, George Alfred (1832–1902)

Out on the Pampas; or, Young Settlers. Burt, 1899. Donohue. Hurst. Street

Hudson, William Henry (1841–1922)

Tales of the Pampas. Knopf, 1916

(Argentina, 1807; English invasion; etc.)

With the exception of two stories, this work appeared previously under the following titles and dates:

El Ombú. Duckworth, 1902
South American Sketches. Duckworth, 1909

Moncrieff, Ascott Robert Hope (pseud. Ascott R. Hope) (1846–)

Pampas: a story of adventure in the Argentine Republic

CALIFORNIA AND THE SOUTHWEST BORDER, OF SPANISH DAYS AND ATMOSPHERE

Anonymous

Amulet: a tale of Spanish California. Longmans, 1865

(Conscience, Hendrik [1812–1883]. Poor Gentlemen and Amulet Murphy, 1907)

Atherton, Mrs. Gertrude Franklin (Horn) (1857–)

Before the Gringo Came. Stokes, 1915, new ed. Continental

The Californians. 1898. Macmillan, 1908, new ed. Stokes, 1916, new ed. Lane

(Magdalena, daughter of the ancient Spanish owners of the soil. The cloistered luxury of the rich hidalgo's home, and the effete type of civilization for which it stands contrasted with the strenuous life of the modern Yankee)

Los Cerritos: a romance of the modern time. 1890. Lovell, 1890, 1895. Heineman, 1891

(An abandoned ranch in southern California on which poor whites and Mexican half breeds have squatted. Owner attempts ejection with exciting consequences)

Splendid Idle Forties: stories of old California. Macmillan, 1902

(Merely the titles of some of these stories show us the Spanish background of this state)

The Valiant Runaways. 1899. Dodd, Mead. Nisbet

(A romance of California before the Union, giving a picture of incessant feuds and adventures, and of the Spaniards in their decadence)

Austin, Mrs. Mary (Hunter) (1868–)

Isidro. Houghton Mifflin, 1905. Constable

(The Spanish missions of southern California, early 19th century. Spanish and Portuguese settlers, and Indians)

Castlemon, Harry (pseud.), (Fosdick, Charles Austin) (1842–)

Frank Among the Rancheros. 1868

Frank at Don Carlos' Rancho. 1871. Porter & Coates. R. W. Carroll

Drago, Harry Sinclair

Suzanna; a romance of early California. Macauley, 1922

(Full of red-lipped, smokey-eyed señoritas, guitars, clash of steel, and bang of firearms. Time–1835)

Driscoll, Clara

In the Shadow of the Alamo. 1906. Putnam, 1906

(Stories of the San Antonio valley, illustrating Texas history from the Spanish conquest till today)

Fox, Francis Margaret (1870–)

Carlota: a story of the San Gabriel Mission. Page, 1908

(A little Spanish girl and her friend in Los Angeles in Mexican War times)

Sante Fé's Partner: being some memorials of events in a New Mexican track-end town. Harper, 1907

McCulley, Johnston

Further Adventures of Zorro. Hutchinson, 1926

(California in the Spanish days. Adventure piled on adventure)

Raymond, Mrs. Evelyn

Monica, the Mesa Maiden. Crowell, 1892

(Spanish California. Rather juvenile atmosphere. Fairly good picture of Spanish types. Pronunciation of Spanish words as explained in the notes usually wrong)

Ryan, Marah Ellis (Martin) (Mrs. E. Erwin Ryan) (pseud. Ellis Martin) (1860–)

For the Soul of Rafael (with illustrations from photographs taken expressly for this book by Harold A. Taylor). McClurg, 1906

(Spanish mission region of California)

Sabin, Edwin Legrand (1870–)

The Rose of Sante Fé. Jacobs, 1923

(A romance in which the Sante Fé trail leads a girl and men through the Apache country, where they become the actors in a tense and exciting drama)

Seltzer, Charles Alden (1875–)

Brass Commandments. Century, 1923

(The American-Mexican frontier in a "gripping story," full of action)

Vachell, Horace Annesley (1861–)

John Charity. 1900. Dodd, Mead, 1901. Murray

(Adventures in Alta California (1830–40). The hero fights under Alvarado against Mexico for independence, and meets with accidents in the field and with love complications among the pretty women)

Winter, William West

Quemado: a western story. Chelsea House, 1923
